Two security guards were robbed of their firearms and some money at a shopping centre in Sydney's inner-west this morning.

The guards, from security company Chubb, were making a delivery at the Marrickville Metro shopping centre about 10am when confronted by two men armed with firearms.

"The guards were threatened, before having their firearms taken from them," a police spokeswoman said.

"The two offenders have left with a sum of cash in a stolen Holden Crewman."

There was no further description of the offenders available at this stage, she said.

The guards, both male, were uninjured, she said.

Local detectives and those from Strike Force Britannia were making enquiries at the shopping centre, she said.

A Chubb spokesman confirmed the robbery had taken place, but had no further details.
